

Before using the Eka-Kool selection software, you must accept our terms of use. If you do not agree with them, un-install the software.

=====

Eka-Kool here after grants you the possibility of using our selection software under the following terms:

By using the selection software, you acknowledge that you have read, understood the terms and conditions.

DISCLAIMER

This software is the property of EKA-KOOL pte ltd and is free to use by the customers of EKA-KOOL pte ltd for the sole purpose of selecting the Eka-Kool products.

Although all possible care has been taken to ensure data within to be accurate, we can not guarantee the selected results. Due to the rare event of a typing error within the complex calculating process within this software program.

This software is merely a selection guide. The calculation methods used are those that are currently known and accepted in good practice. However, it may occur that due to a software failure, the results do not concur with reality.

Parameters of calculation have been carefully optimized for general use under the selected application by the user's input.

The use of this software and of the information obtained thereby is the user's exclusive responsibility.

Under no circumstance shall Eka-Kool be responsible for any losses or damages. Including, without limit, damages arising from loss of profit, interruption of business, loss of commercial information, perished goods and or refrigerants.

Information on prices, are indicative only and may contain errors.

To obtain and confirm valid prices, please contact your local representative.

Eka-Kool reserves the right to make changes to the technical data contained in the software at any time without prior notice, which may change the data results obtained.

Eka-Kool reserves the right to withdraw authorization for the use of this software without prior or justified notice.